[1] The internship allows students to gain workplace skills and real-world experience in their chosen field. For the Nonprofit Studies minor, an internship/practicum is required at a non-profit organization; students must make prior arrangements with the Nonprofit Studies program director. Before taking the internship/practicum course, students must have taken (or will take concurrently) HDFS 44033 and HDFS 44034.

[2] In TAS 37900, students construct a meaningful career management plan to explore and prepare for their preferred professional goals.

[3] TAS 47999, taken near the end of the program, synthesizes learning and focuses on foundational competencies in the form of service or experiential learning, a discipline-specific research project and the development of an academic/career e-portfolio. A minimum C grade must be earned to fulfill the writing-intensive requirement.

[4] In collaboration with an advisor, students develop a plan of study for two to three specializations that draw on transferred, completed and available Kent State coursework. Students select from a flexible and robust core of skills- and knowledge-based courses - bridging multiple disciplines - to develop a tailored option to best benefit and further professional goals. A faculty member approves the student's specializations to ensure they meet the student's needs. Two of the three specialization areas may be from the same discipline. One specialization must be distinct.

@ Course may be taken at Eastern Gateway Community College and transferred to Kent State. However, please be aware of Kent State's residence policy, which can be found in the Kent State University Catalog.
