$300.00 Stipend
Applications Due April 21, 2024

Why Belonging Matters in Higher Education

Belonging is a key component in advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education. Belonging is based on valuing different elements and individuals that make up the whole in promoting a comfortable learning environment based on a shared sense of community that is inclusive, fair, and collaborative. Belonging helps lessen feelings of social isolation and non-acceptance among students, especially those from underrepresented populations, in the education experience. Creating a sense of community and affinity among students ignites reciprocity and a “growth mindset” for personal academic, and professional advancement.
