LIFELONG LEARNING

At its core, the Lifelong Learning unit at Kent State University exists to meet individuals and organizations where they are and to help them move forward with purpose. We support learning across the lifespan, offering experiences that range from youth camps that spark curiosity and early exploration, to our Senior Guest Program, which allows older adults in our community to audit credit-bearing courses tuition-free, and a wide array of professional and personal enrichment opportunities in between. Together, these offerings contribute to well-rounded individuals, a skilled workforce, and strong, resilient communities.

This work is especially critical in a region shaped by evolving industries, emerging technologies, and changing workforce demands. Employers increasingly need adaptable, skilled talent, while individuals seek learning that is timely, relevant, and directly connected to their goals. In response, Lifelong Learning delivers high-quality professional development and continuing education that strengthens careers, supports organizational growth, and contributes to regional economic vitality.

Our approach is grounded in collaboration and informed by real-world needs. Across all our programs, we are guided by a commitment to relevance, quality, and impact. Offerings are developed in partnership with employers, university colleges and departments, and community stakeholders, ensuring that learning experiences reflect both expertise and regional priorities. At the heart of this work is the belief that education is not a single milestone, but an ongoing process that enables individuals and organizations to adapt, innovate, and thrive.

As you explore this catalog, we invite you to view Lifelong Learning as a partner in progress. Whether you are advancing your own career, developing talent within your organization, or seeking to address emerging workforce and community needs, we welcome the opportunity to work with you to participate in meaningful, responsive learning experiences that make a lasting impact.

LEAN SIX SIGMA TRAINING AND CERTIFICATION

Smoother processes, greater efficiency and cost savings are just a few of the advantages that will make your organization more competitive when you implement Lean and Six Sigma continual improvement principles. Lean techniques eliminate wasteful activities, while Six Sigma is a disciplined method for meeting customers' expectations and eliminating defects in any process.

Investing in Lean Six Sigma training is the beginning of a new way of doing business. A commitment to implementing these methodologies and tools creates a culture of operational excellence. In the end, you'll achieve bottom-line results from the projects your Black Belts undertake, and you'll transform your organization into a more efficient, customer-focused one.

CERTIFICATE IN PROJECT LEADERSHIP

LEADERSHIP IN ANY PROJECT IS CRUCIAL TO ITS SUCCESS.

While managing projects to the traditional project constraints of time, scope and budget are important, project leadership ensures that the organization's investment in each project helps advance the organization's strategy. While our certificate courses are practicing and encouraging great Project Management practices, maybe more importantly, we are equipping participants to be great business partners.

As a follow-up to the Certificate in Project Management, Kent State University's new Certificate in Project Leadership helps you develop these skills.

YOU WILL RECEIVE HANDS-ON SKILLS AND PRACTICE IN:

- » ALIGNING PROJECT INVESTMENTS TO ORGANIZATIONAL STRATEGIC GOALS
- » BUSINESS DECISION MAKING
- » NEGOTIATION
- » PROJECT CONTRACT TYPES AND THEIR ASSOCIATED RISKS
- » CONFLICT MANAGEMENT
- » AGILE AND ADAPTIVE PROJECT MANAGEMENT
- » PROJECT ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
- » MANAGING MULTIPLE PROJECTS
- » PROJECT EVALUATION

REQUIRED:

Project Leadership

Facilitator: Pete Evangelista, PMP

Organizing and managing the day-to-day activities of a project can be challenging enough. However, successful project managers must also have the skills necessary to lead teams through difficult decisions, and communicate with and influence stakeholders outside the core project team. The difference between management and leadership will forever be debated; but when it comes to projects, you manage the process and lead the people. This program focuses on five skills necessary to effectively lead a project. learn more

Navigating the Transition for Peer to Supervisor

Facilitator: Mike Rooney

Moving into a leadership role is a natural progression in an employee's career. Often this transition means that the new leader is now 'in charge' of people who were previously peers. Navigating this transition can be a challenge for anyone. This program is designed to help leaders make that transition go smoothly. learn more

Effective Performance Management for Managers and Supervisors

Facilitator: Kristy Frieden

Research shows that a majority of managers, employees and HR leaders feel that their performance management results are ineffective and/or inaccurate. Additionally, performance reviews are dreaded by most managers and seem to demotivate and disengage rather than inspire employees to work more efficiently and productively. In this program, you will learn how to put value back into your performance review process by understanding the key components of a successful performance management system.

High-impact Learning: Fundamentals for Designing the Adult Learning Experience

Facilitator: Ned Parks

Successful course design in a short amount of time is a requirement in today’s fast-paced environment. It requires the training professional to deliver high-quality, high-impact training; often with little budget and under severe time constraints. Understanding the needs of adult learners is the key to success in this process. The workshop will provide you with adult learning foundations and design skills specific for those conducting any type of training. learn more
