LaunchNET Kent State, an entrepreneurship resource for Kent State University students, faculty, staff and alumni, received a $40,000 grant from the Burton D. Morgan Foundation to create a 2023 microgrants program for student- and alumni-owned businesses.

In 2022, LaunchNET distributed over 40 microgrants ($99-$500) to Kent State student-run businesses, but this is the first time the program will be extended to alumni.

“We are excited to expand our microgrants programming to our alumni entrepreneurs and are looking forward to seeing what projects and dynamic uses they will have for these new funds,” says Zach Mikrut, BBA ’10, MEd ’19, LaunchNET director. “LaunchNET advising has always had an eye towards economic development, and microgrants are a tool for helping entrepreneurs to move on their goals quickly.”

The LaunchNET alumni microgrants program will help alumni entrepreneurs move their businesses forward with inventory, capital, product or other related purchases. Details include:

- Grants range from $500-$3,000.
- Applicant must be a Kent State University alumnus.
- Businesses must be based in Ohio.
- Grants are open to businesses with $200K or less in gross revenue.

The program will launch in summer 2023.

Learn more about the student and alumni microgrants program at www.kent.edu/launchnet.

Boost for Ohio Businesses

Launched Kent State, an entrepreneurship resource for Kent State University students, faculty, staff and alumni, received a $40,000 grant from the Burton D. Morgan Foundation to create a 2023 microgrants program for student- and alumni-owned businesses.

In 2022, LaunchNET distributed over 40 microgrants ($99-$500) to Kent State student-run businesses, but this is the first time the program will be extended to alumni.

“We are excited to expand our microgrants programming to our alumni entrepreneurs and are looking forward to seeing what projects and dynamic uses they will have for these new funds,” says Zach Mikrut, BBA ’10, MEd ’19, LaunchNET director. “LaunchNET advising has always had an eye towards economic development, and microgrants are a tool for helping entrepreneurs to move on their goals quickly.”

The LaunchNET alumni microgrants program will help alumni entrepreneurs move their businesses forward with inventory, capital, product or other related purchases. Details include:

- Grants range from $500-$3,000.
- Applicant must be a Kent State University alumnus.
- Businesses must be based in Ohio.
- Grants are open to businesses with $200K or less in gross revenue.

The program will launch in summer 2023.

Learn more about the student and alumni microgrants program at www.kent.edu/launchnet.

Upcycled Fashion Comes to Kent

Justine Gallo, BA ’22, has combined her personal philosophy and fashion design degree to launch a new business in downtown Kent.

Sun in Leo is a boutique located in Acorn Alley that reuses—and responsibly sources—clothing, accessories, jewelry and trinkets.

Gallo says the concept of circularity drives the store’s business model, which focuses on resource cycles such as reusing, repairing, refurbishing and upcycling to extend the life of products and waste as little as possible.

Sustainable fashion is a fundamental part of Kent State’s fashion program, Gallo says, and it inspired her to open her own store. “The more I learned about it, the more I realized that there’s so much more that we all could be doing,” she says. “But I wanted to be that person to do it.”

Everything in the store is responsibly sourced or upcycled by Gallo. She uses seed tags to label all items sold at the shop and attaches the tags with safety pins instead of plastic. Buyers can plant or compost the tags and reuse the safety pins.

Customers also get points at the store by bringing reusable bags when shopping. In addition, they can receive coupons for donating jewelry, apparel and other items they no longer want. Gallo can also repair all Sun in Leo accessories and make any requested alterations.

The name Sun in Leo has a personal connection for Gallo, whose zodiac sign is Leo, also known as the sun sign. She says the store takes a lot of inspiration from astrology in terms of aesthetic and products sold.

Learn more about Kent State’s School of Fashion at www.kent.edu/fashion.

Learn more about Sun in Leo at www.instagram.com/shopsuninleo.