

GINA NOTIFICATION

If you are a KSU employee, you should be aware that the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA) prohibits employers from using genetic information to make decisions about an employee's health insurance or employment, and restricts the acquisition and disclosure of genetic information. Your medical information will not be shared with any other department on campus without your consent.

For more information, or to file a complaint of genetic discrimination, please contact KSU's Office of Affirmative Action.

Please remember that when granting access to your medical records to third parties, you may be granting access to your entire medical file. You are encouraged to ask a UHS staff member for more information about your rights regarding disclosure to third parties.
