Call 911 . . .

- . . . when witnessing a crime in progress
- . . . when a violent crime has been committed
- . . . when there is fire – first evacuate the building and then call 911
- . . . when there is a physical or sexual assault
- . . . when a medical concern cannot be managed or if the condition of a previous illness/injury changes to a medical emergency

Do not call 911 for non-emergency situations. Instead, call KSU police at 330-672-2212.

Examples of 911

Medical Emergencies Are:

- * Severe difficulty breathing
- * Not breathing
- * Severe choking (e.g. can't cry or talk)
- * Bluish lips and difficulty breathing
- * Seizures or convulsions
- * Head trauma or other serious trauma
- * Uncontrollable bleeding
- * Chest pain
- * Drug or alcohol overdose
- * Change in mental status; suicidal behavior

When Calling 911,

Remember to Provide:

- Your exact location (room, floor, building)
- Type of emergency
- Your name
- The telephone number you are calling from
- Details of emergency as requested and
- Follow instructions of the 911 operators

KSU Nurse Line

330-672-2326

24 hours a day, 7 days a week

FREE AND CONFIDENTIAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS WITH MEDICAL CONCERNS

Kent State University Health Services offers students the opportunity to call the KSU Nurse Line which delivers quality medical advice 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Even when the DeWeese Health Center is closed, students may call the KSU Nurse Line and talk to a registered nurse who will assess their medical concerns and suggest what to do next. In most cases, the students will be able to take care of themselves right at their residence. Sometimes, students may need to see a doctor. In these cases, the nurse will help determine if the student needs an emergency and/or urgent care facility immediately, or simply advise the student to schedule a visit to the Kent State University's DeWeese Health Center when the center is open.

Call the KSU Nurse Line when you . . .

- . . . are in need of a medical assessment or home care advice
- . . . are experiencing symptoms that might be a medical concern
- . . . have been exposed to or ingested a potentially poisonous or hazardous substance
- . . . require immediate information regarding medications
- . . . need advice about insect or animal bites
- . . . are in need of an assessment on injuries or trauma (not a 911 emergency)
- . . . are experiencing seasonal illness such as colds, coughs, sore throats, flu symptoms, allergies, etc.

The KSU Nurse Line offers services for deaf/near deaf and non-English speaking callers.
