Doctoral Dissertation Committee

Director
Scott Courtney, Ph.D.
Associate Professor
School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies
College of Education, Health, and Human Services

Committee Members
Karl W. Martin, Ph.D., MFA
Adjunct Professor
School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies
College of Education, Health, and Human Services

Brian Lovins, Ph.D.
President, Justice Systems Partners

Graduate Faculty Representative
Jiahui Wang, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies
College of Education, Health, and Human Services

KENT STATE UNIVERSITY
College of Education, Health and Human Services

Doctoral Dissertation Defense of
Karen L. Schwartz
For the degree of Doctor of Education
Interprofessional Leadership

WHAT MATTERS?
A CASE STUDY OF YOUTH AND MENTORS AT BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS

Friday, March 22, 2024
9:45AM
403 White Hall
Kent State University

Microsoft Teams Link
Karen Lippmann Schwartz

M.S.S.A.
Mandel School of Applied Social Science
Case Western Reserve University
Cleveland, Ohio, 1990

B.A., Psychology
School of Literature, Science and the Arts
University of Michigan
Ann Arbor, Michigan, 1986

Karen is a social worker with decades of experience focusing on children and families. For most of her career she’s worked in program implementation, strategic planning, policy development, grants management and finance. She worked at Juvenile Court for over 20 years and is now the Director of Programs at Big Brothers Big Sisters of Lorain County, which has been incredibly supportive through this Ed.D. program and has allowed her to utilize more of her management and planning skills. When Karen is not working or finishing schoolwork, she can be found training her dog, (Whomping) Willow who is a bundle of energy at 2 years old and loves to learn as they train together every day.

What Matters? A Case Study of Youth and Mentors at Big Brothers Big Sisters

For over 100 years, youth mentoring has grown to be an evidenced based prevention strategy for youth, demonstrating positive youth outcomes through strong relationships with caring adults. While trusting relationships are the mainstay of the positive impacts achieved through mentoring, the difficulty in recruiting volunteer adults has not met the steady increase of needy children and has encouraged the mentoring field to expand beyond the one-on-one mentoring model. In response to this challenge, Big Brothers Big Sisters of Lorain County (BBBSLC) has developed innovative mentoring programs to allow for an increased reach and involvement for more youth. In this light, the purpose of this study was to identify and characterize its youth and adult volunteer participants. Through a quantitative study of application data and youth risk/protective outcome surveys at BBBSLC, the following research questions were addressed: (a) what are the characteristics of youth that seek community-based programming; (b) what are the characteristics of adult volunteers that seek to participate in programming; and (c) what are the predictive drivers of youth and adult volunteers that contribute to meaningful and successful community-based matches? Data was collected from youth and adult mentor enrollees from 2018 – 2023. Results indicated most prevalent descriptors for both adult volunteers and youth enrollees and data variables for predictability of being matched. Implications and recommendations for practice were also included. The researcher emphasizes the importance of these expanded forms of mentoring in conjunction with one-on-one mentoring in order to achieve positive youth outcomes for the greatest number of children.